The Fire Brigade releases thus far, though captured at their original HQ "The 2105" have included a host of excellent beat makers and producers as contributors, and have included time spent polishing at high end recording studios, but for the next wave of the musical journey, they've taken matters entirely into their own hands.

The latest singles from The Fire Brigade began with their time in CF Hawn studio, in Dallas, Texas which yielded the collaboration tracks featured on the "Bella Vida" compilations, but also, they worked on the first Brigade tracks to be completed solely by the core duo.

Dallas, TeXXXas" is born of these sessions and this process. The first of these new tracks are included on the "Bella Vida vol 2" compilation, with the third instalment debuting on the WFMU Free Music Archive.

Another of FAZE of The Fire Brigade begins.
