"STREET TACTIC"

G'Odd
featuring:
FREE FANTASY VERSE
WAAZU
and:
BOXHEAD WALKER

produced by G'Odd at CF Hawn studio and MECCA mobil

"Street Tactic" is a challenging work of experimental sound design, rooted in hip and brings together a diverse group of contributors.

It is meant to reflect the voices echoing on the streets of the "bad part of town" in Everywhere, USA.

Crushing bass, and minimalist beats provide a back drop for the hiss and crackle of G'Odd, some ambient freakery from Free Fantasy Verse, the jarring interlude of Waazu's gospel/r&b Until being finished off with some classic MC'n from Boxhead Walker.

The accompanying music video draws upon manipulated images of cityscapes, crude animation, and lo-fi effect trickery, attempting to show a glimpse of the world invoked by the song.

"Street Tactic" is a listening/viewing about as comfortable as a night alone on the sidewalk of an unfamiliar neighborhood, on the wrong side of the track marks.
